Message from the B.C. Government

As an older British Columbian, you are part of an ever growing group that is healthier, more active and engaged in your communities than ever before.

We envision – for decades to come – a province where older people continue to be an integral part of our social and economic life, where you are encouraged to use your talent and expertise; where you are invited to be involved in your community; and where you feel safe and supported in your physical environment.

We recognize that, as part of our commitment to building the best system of support for seniors in Canada, providing the information you need to connect with resources in your communities is key. Access to this information is equally important for caregivers and service providers.

This is the reason we've once again updated our B.C. Seniors' Guide – the 9th edition – which contains information on the programs and benefits available to seniors in British Columbia.

Visit our Seniors' website at www.SeniorsBC.ca for constantly updated versions of this guide and translated versions in French, Chinese and Punjabi.

Additional information on government services can be accessed through the BC Health and Seniors Information Line (toll free at 1 800 465-4911 or 250 952-1742 in Victoria).

We trust this guide will be a useful resource, helping you access the services and supports that can make a real difference in your life.

The 9th Edition of the British Columbia Senior's Guide was printed in the winter of 2008-2009. Information may change from the time of publication. Updates to this guide can be found online at www.SeniorsBC.ca.

Seniors Redefine the Concept of Aging

It may be time to redefine what being senior really means. Statistics Canada's report, A Portrait of Seniors in Canada, says that seniors are more dynamic than ever. Seniors enjoy increased life expectancy and generally better health. They are more physically active and more involved in groups and activities in their communities. They are more connected and they have better access to information than any previous generation of senior citizens. The number of seniors who use the Internet has increased by seven times in the last 10 years.

The BC Seniors Games, for example, show that physical activity, fun, and social engagement know no age barriers. This annual event brings more than 3,500 British Columbians over the age of 55 together for four days of competition and celebration in activities from dragon-boating to lawn-bowling, and from track and field to cribbage. With BC Seniors Games Society memberships and regional zone playdowns, seniors can benefit from social and active living year-round.

Boomer Friendly Boot Camps are available to seniors who want to take the first step to competing at the BC Seniors Games, or who just want to have fun and be more active.

It's all about living a healthier lifestyle, and staying active is the key. In this section you will find information about how to connect with your community, become involved in sports or other activities, and eat healthier foods. The Active Aging Symposium promotes these values, along with programs such as Age-Friendly Communities and the provincial Age-friendly Leadership Network.

Healthy Living

Volunteer organizations such as Volunteer BC are a natural fit with seniors interested in giving back to their communities. The skills and experience that seniors bring to these organizations are highly valued, and there is information in this section about finding ways to volunteer.

For seniors engaged in continued learning, there is information available about some of the province's post-secondary institutions, which offer reduced or free tuition for some educational programs, or English Language Training. There is also information about other ways seniors are being encouraged to remain healthy, active, and involved, including reduced fees for camping, hunting, and fishing, as well as discounts for the Royal BC Museum.

Healthy Living

PHYSICAL ACTIVITY AND SENIORS

The older we get, the more concerned we tend to be about our health. Yet, as we age, many of us find it harder to move around and get the physical activity we need to enjoy the best possible quality of life.

Getting active and staying active benefits more than just our bodies. It helps us stay engaged in life, improves our mood and mental health, and gives us opportunities to meet new people. It also helps our confidence and self-esteem – and some studies show it can ward off problems such as dementia by keeping our minds in good condition.

ActNow BC

ActNow BC is the most comprehensive health promotion program of its kind in North America, and is encouraging all British Columbians, including seniors, to be more physically active and make healthier eating choices.

ActNow BC Healthy Living Pledge

ActNow BC is committed to helping all British Columbians live healthier lifestyles. You can take the ActNow BC Healthy Living Pledge to take small, simple steps to improve your health; the ActNow BC website has many helpful tools and tips to help you reach your goals.

Visit the ActNow BC website to take the Healthy Living Pledge.

Healthy Eating for Seniors

Healthy Eating for Seniors is a handbook available in English, Chinese, and Punjabi that includes information about healthy eating – what seniors should pay attention to when it comes to food, meals, and supplements. It gives tips on how to eat to prevent or manage common chronic diseases. It also provides advice on simple ways to eat with less salt and fat, how to read labels, and how to maintain a healthy body weight. Several delicious recipes are included in portion sizes for one or two people. Healthy Eating for Seniors is free of charge in B.C.

To order a free printed copy of Healthy Eating for Seniors, call the Health and Seniors Information Line.

Healthy Living

HEALTHY COMMUNITIES

Local governments play an important role in creating the kinds of environments that help people make healthy choices in all areas of their lives, improving quality of life, reducing demand on the health care system, and helping us achieve our goal of leading North America in healthy living and physical fitness.

Age-Friendly Communities

British Columbia is developing tools, resources, and support to local governments and communities to help them plan and adapt to become more accessible and inclusive for older persons. The goal is to make B.C. the most age-friendly jurisdiction in Canada by 2010. In an age-friendly community, policies, services, settings, and structures support and enable older people to age actively by:

- Recognizing the wide range of capacities and resources among older persons;

- Anticipating and responding flexibly to aging-related needs and preferences;

- Respecting decisions and lifestyle choices;

- Protecting those who are most vulnerable; and

- Promoting inclusion and contribution in all areas of community life.

Provincial Age-friendly Leadership Network

The provincial Age-friendly Leadership Network works to engage leaders from a wide range of diverse sectors and perspectives in developing age-friendly communities in B.C. The Network consists of leaders of business, financial, professional, government, Aboriginal, service, community, and seniors' organizations who are in positions to influence change in their communities and to support the creation of age-friendly communities.

Volunteering

Healthy communities are about more than physical activity; they require the engagement of citizens of all ages. Volunteering is a great way to stay connected and take part in building the health of your community. With many useful skills and a wealth of experience to share, seniors and retirees who volunteer make a significant contribution in all sectors of society.

Local Volunteer Centres can provide information about volunteer opportunities in your community.

Volunteer BC is a provincial organization, based in Vancouver, that promotes the development and value of volunteerism in B.C. by working co-operatively with volunteer centres, governments, and other organizations. If you need assistance in connecting with your local volunteer centre, Volunteer BC can help.

VolWeb.ca™ is helping to increase access to volunteer opportunities and celebrates the spirit of volunteerism across B.C. Created by 2010 Legacies Now and supported by the Province, this on-line service connects volunteers with organizations that need special event volunteers. No long-term commitments are required, and volunteer times range from one hour to one weekend – you decide. Best of all, it is free and easy to use.

Health Services

Offering You the Best in Patient Care and Health

If you are a senior citizen living in British Columbia, you are a growing and vibrant part of this province's population. More senior citizens choose to live here than in any other part of Canada. According to the 2006 census, nearly 15 per cent of British Columbians are aged 65 or older.

British Columbia's health care system encourages seniors to stay healthy and independent for as long as possible. We have accessible and affordable health services that respond to the needs of seniors, and we are committed to making it easier for residents to find the information they need about programs and services that apply to them. Being aware of what's available is the first step to enjoying improved health services.

This section of the guide has information about the provincial health care system, transportation assistance, health and wellness programs and focused medical care. If you are looking for information about managing disease or disability, assisted living resources or planning for the inevitability of the end of life, services listed here can help.

The government is working hard to make information about programs and services, especially health information, readily available to seniors through the expanded BC Health and Seniors Information Line and HealthLink BC.

HealthLink BC is the gateway to access non-emergency health information and services in British Columbia. HealthLink BC helps you learn about health topics, check your symptoms, and find health services and resources that you need for healthy living.

Health Services

You can call 8-1-1 to speak with a nurse, pharmacist or dietitian or visit HealthLinkBC.ca for easy access to help you find the health services you need, closest to where you live. Translation services are available in over 130 languages on request.

Visit our website at www.healthlinkbc.ca for medically-approved information on over 4,000 health topics and over 2,500 health services in a searchable database, along with reliable information on prescription and over-the-counter drugs through a comprehensive medication library.

We have written the book on how to recognize and cope with common health concerns. You can also find topics of interest to seniors, including a chapter on healthy aging. Preventing illness, home treatment, and when to see a health professional – it is all in the free BC HealthGuide Handbook, available in English, French, Chinese, and Punjabi. In print and on the web, you can also find BC HealthFiles or fact sheets on public health and safety topics.

Any time of the day or night, every day of the year, British Columbians have trusted health information at their fingertips, just a phone call or a click away with HealthLink BC.

It is all part of your provincial government's commitment to providing you with accessible public health care.

Health Services

BRITISH COLUMBIA'S HEALTH CARE SYSTEM

In British Columbia's regionalized health care system, responsibility for the direct delivery and management of most health services rests with the health authority in each region. The Ministry of Health Services has ultimate authority and responsibility for our publicly administered health care system. The ministry ensures that health authorities manage and deliver health services consistent with provincial legislation, regulation, policy, standards, and other requirements made by the Minister of Health Services.

The Ministry of Health Services delivers several province-wide programs, including the Medical Services Plan, Travel Assistance Program, PharmaCare, and BC Ambulance Service.

HealthLink BC helps you learn about health topics, check your symptoms, and find the health services and resources that you need for healthy living. Call 8-1-1 to consult with a nurse, pharmacist or dietitian, or visit HealthLinkBC.ca for easy access to help you find the health services you need, closest to where you live.

ABOUT HEALTHLINK BC

Some of British Columbia's most trusted and recognized health information and services are consolidated in HealthLink BC. We have brought together the existing and reliable services that British Columbians count on for health information – BC HealthGuide, BC HealthFiles, BC NurseLine and Pharmacist service, and Dial-a-Dietitian – and expanded these with an online and by-phone navigation service to help B.C. residents find the health resources and facilities they need, closest to where they live.

HealthLink BC is the gateway to access non-emergency health information and services in British Columbia. It is a phone number, and it is a website; it is a collection of print and telephone resources that puts services and health know-how into the hands and homes of B.C. residents. Through HealthLink BC programs and services, you can get the information you need to manage your health concerns or those of your family.

By phone: 8-1-1

Speak to a nurse: Call 8-1-1 to ask a registered nurse your health questions, any hour of the day or night. Nurses are available 24/7 to help you with non-emergency health concerns, to discuss symptoms and procedures, and to recommend whether you should see a health professional.

Speak to a pharmacist: Call 8-1-1 to ask medication questions. Pharmacists are on call at 8-1-1 when your community pharmacist may be unavailable, every night from 5 p.m. to 9 a.m.

Health Services

Speak to a dietitian: Call 8-1-1 and speak to a dietitian for nutrition advice on Monday to Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Translation services are available in over 130 languages on request. For deaf and hearing-impaired assistance (TTY), call 7-1-1 in B.C.

On the web:

www.healthlinkbc.ca

Check your symptoms, learn about health conditions and topics, and find the resources and services you need.

HealthLink BC.ca has medically-approved information on over 4,000 health topics and over 2,500 health services in our searchable database, available in English. You will find reliable information on medications and prescription drugs here too through our comprehensive medication library. The integrated search and mapping function of our new Health Navigation Service helps you find the health services you need, closest to where you live.

In print: BC HealthGuide Handbook and BC HealthFiles

We have written the book on how to recognize and cope with common health concerns. You can also find topics of interest to seniors, including a chapter on healthy aging. Preventing illness, home treatment and when to see a health professional – it is all in the free BC HealthGuide Handbook, available in English, French, Chinese, and Punjabi. The BC First Nations HealthGuide Handbook, an online companion document to the BC HealthGuide, is also available on our website.

Health Services

The BC HealthFiles are fact sheets on public health and safety topics, available on the website and at local public health units. Some BC HealthFiles are available in French, Chinese, Punjabi, Farsi, Spanish, or Vietnamese. See translated BC HealthFiles at www.healthlinkbc.ca for more information.

The handbook and other resources are available free of charge only to British Columbia residents and organizations that help to distribute these in their community. For more information, call 8-1-1 or see the order form on our website. You can also get your free BC HealthGuide in your community. English handbooks are available at your local pharmacy or Government Agent's office. Chinese or Punjabi handbooks are available at many community or multicultural organizations, and French handbooks are available through your local francophone organization.

MEDICAL SERVICES PLAN

The Medical Services Plan of British Columbia (MSP) insures medically required services provided to British Columbians by physicians including laboratory services and diagnostic procedures. MSP contributes towards supplementary benefits for eligible beneficiaries.

All B.C. residents are required to enroll with MSP and pay a monthly premium.

New residents or persons re-establishing residence in B.C. are eligible for coverage after completing a waiting period that normally consists of the remainder of the month of arrival, plus two months. To allow time for your application to be processed, you should apply for MSP coverage immediately after arriving in B.C., rather than at the end of the waiting period. If you are 65 years of age or older and enrolled in MSP, you will automatically receive a Gold CareCard. Your Gold CareCard is useful as proof of age and residence for discounts offered by certain government programs and many businesses.

Premium Assistance

If your income is low and you are a Canadian citizen or landed immigrant (permanent resident) who has held that status and lived in Canada for the last 12 consecutive months, you may be eligible to receive assistance with premium payments or a premium waiver. If you are a Status Indian or Inuit, the federal government may pay premiums on your behalf.

There are two programs that offer subsidies to those in financial need: regular premium assistance administered by Health Insurance BC and temporary premium assistance administered by the Ministry of Finance. The vast majority of people who qualify for assistance do so under the regular premium assistance program.

Health Services

Regular Premium Assistance

This program offers subsidies ranging from 20 to 100 percent, based on an individual's net income (or a couple's combined net income) for the preceding tax year, less deductions for age, family size and disability.

To apply for premium assistance, you need to complete and return an application form to Health Insurance BC. Forms and more information are available online at <https://www.health.gov.bc.ca/exforms/msp.html> or by contacting Health Insurance BC:

In Greater Vancouver, call: 604 683-7151

Toll-free, call: 1 800 663-7100

Temporary Premium Assistance

This program offers a short-term period of premium waiver to qualifying individuals and families. To be eligible you must meet all the following criteria:

You are billed directly for your own MSP premiums;

You (and your spouse, if applicable) have filed the previous year's income tax return with the Canada Revenue Agency;

You are experiencing unexpected financial hardship for which you could not reasonably have budgeted;

The essential living cost for your household exceeds the total income of you and your spouse. Essential living cost does not include consumer debt or loan payments.

For eligible applicants, temporary premium assistance can be provided for up to six months from the date the application was received.

For more information or to receive an application package, contact the Ministry of Finance:

Medical Benefits

MSP pays for medically required services of physician and surgeons, diagnostic X-rays and laboratory services (enrolled with MSP). In addition, MSP will cover dental and oral surgery when medically required and must be performed in a hospital.

Supplementary Benefits

MSP contributes towards supplementary benefits for eligible beneficiaries. For MSP beneficiaries receiving premium assistance, MSP pays $23 per visit for a combined annual limit of 10 visits per calendar year for the following services: acupuncture, chiropractic, massage therapy, naturopathy, physical therapy and non-surgical podiatry. Surgical podiatry is a benefit for all beneficiaries.

Routine eye examinations are a benefit for those ages 18 years of age and under, or 65 years of age and older. Medically required eye examinations are a benefit for all beneficiaries. MSP contributes $46.17 towards each eye examination provided by an optometrist. All supplementary benefit providers, including optometrists, may charge supplemental fees to their patients, provided the patient is advised in advance.

TRAVEL ASSISTANCE PROGRAM

The Travel Assistance Program (TAP) offers travel discounts to eligible B.C. residents who must travel within the province for non-emergency medical specialist services not available in their own community, and whose travel expenses are not covered by third-party insurance or other government programs. A physician's referral is necessary, and the patient must have the physician complete a TAP form. TAP must be contacted prior to travel for a confirmation number in order to receive a discount.

TAP is a private and public sector-corporate partnership program coordinated by the Ministry of Health Services. Instead of direct financial assistance, its partners waive or discount fees. They may also provide travel assistance.

ACUTE, HOME AND COMMUNITY CARE SERVICES

B.C.'s health authorities provide a variety of acute and community health services, residential services and special support services to assist people whose ability to function independently is affected by health-related problems. The type of assistance and support required varies from one person to another, and may change over time for each individual.

Hospital Care

If you are registered with the Medical Services Plan, and have a valid CareCard, you are insured for most services provided by hospitals. This includes emergency care in the Emergency Department, inpatient care (where you stay overnight) and outpatient care (where you go in for a scheduled service and go home the same day).

Health Services

When you are admitted into an acute care hospital in B.C. for inpatient care, you will automatically receive standard accommodation, meals, nursing services, and other goods and services that are medically required while you are a patient in the hospital. This includes any needed laboratory or diagnostic tests and X-rays, prescription medications, most medical supplies, routine surgical supplies, and rehabilitation services provided in the hospital.

Patients may only be charged for goods and services used in the hospital when they are not medically required. If you request a private or semi-private hospital room, you will be required to pay a room charge determined by the individual hospital; however, some third-party medical plans cover this cost. Patients may also be charged for certain non-standard medical devices, but you must give your consent to purchase these items in advance.

Patients are also responsible for paying for medical equipment, medical supplies, prosthetics that are not implanted in the body, and medications, when these are to be used after the patient returns home. Some of these items may be insured under Fair PharmaCare, depending on the circumstances of the patient.

Home and Community Care

Home and community care services provide health care and support services to eligible British Columbians who have acute, chronic, palliative or rehabilitative health care needs. They are provided by health authorities, either directly or through partnerships with non-profit and for profit housing and care providers. Services are meant to complement or supplement clients' needs which are met mainly through families, friends and other community resources.

In-home services include home care nursing, rehabilitation, home support and palliative care. Community-based services include adult day programs, meal programs, assisted living, residential care services and hospice care. Case management services are provided in both the home and the community. Depending on the type of care required and an individual's income, there may be a cost associated with some services. Contact your health authority for more information.

Health Services

Home and Community Care Services

- Support clients to remain independent and in their own homes for as long as possible;
- Provide services at home to clients who would otherwise require admission to hospital or would stay longer in hospital;
- Provide assisted living and residential care services to clients who can no longer be supported in their homes; and
- Provide services that support people who are nearing the end of their life, and their families, at home, in assisted living, in residential care or in a hospice.

Who is Eligible?

To be eligible for services such as home care nursing, physiotherapy or occupational therapy, clients must:

- Be a resident of British Columbia;
- Be a Canadian Citizen or have permanent resident status (landed immigrant or on a Minister's permit approved by the Ministry of Health Services Medical Advisory Committee); and
- Require care following discharge from an acute care hospital, care at home rather than hospitalization, or care because of a terminal illness.

Health Services

To be eligible for subsidized services, such as home support, assisted living, adult day care, case management, residential care services and/or palliative care services, clients must:

- Be 19 years of age or older;
- Have lived in British Columbia for the required period of time. (This depends on the service; contact your local health authority for current information.);
- Be a Canadian citizen or have permanent resident status (landed immigrant or on a Minister's permit approved by the Ministry of Health Services Medical Advisory Committee); and
- Be unable to function independently because of chronic, health-related problems, or have been diagnosed by a doctor with an end-stage illness.

Obtaining Services

For information about home and community care services, contact your local health authority. A relative, friend or professional (physician, nurse, pharmacist or social worker) may also contact the health authority on a client's behalf.

A staff member determines the urgency of the client's situation and if a care assessment is required.

Case Management and Care Coordination

Assessing the client's care needs and abilities, the case manager develops a plan with the client and their family. The case manager recommends home health services and resources available in the community; refers clients to specific programs; and stays in touch to help clients with arrangements or to make needed adjustments if their care needs change.

Health Services

Home Support

Home support services help clients remain in their own homes by providing personal assistance with daily activities. These include bathing, dressing, grooming and light household tasks to help maintain a safe and supportive home.

Choice in Supports for Independent Living (CSIL)

Choice in Supports for Independent Living is an alternative for clients who want more flexibility in arranging home support services. They receive funds to purchase their own services and they manage, coordinate and are financially responsible for recruiting, hiring, training, scheduling and supervising home support workers.

Family members who provide care and assistance may be eligible to be paid under this program.

Seniors and people with disabilities who are unable, or not always able, to direct their own care can obtain CSIL funding through a client support group. The case manager can provide more information on how to establish a support group to manage CSIL services on the client's behalf.

Home Care Nursing and Community Rehabilitation Services

Home care nursing and community rehabilitation provide non-emergency, in-home nursing care and rehabilitation therapy. They assist British Columbians with acute or chronic illnesses, adults recovering from a hospital stay and clients nearing the end of their lives.

Health Services

Adult Day Centres

Adult day programs provide supportive group programs and activities to assist seniors and adults with disabilities to remain independently in the community, and to provide caregivers with short periods of respite. Activities vary with each centre, but may include personal care, social activities and caregiver respite.

Caregiver Relief/Respite

Respite care offers caregivers temporary relief from the emotional and physical demands of caring for a friend or family member. It gives caregivers the opportunity to join in community activities or renew their energies so they can continue to provide quality care.

Respite can include assistance in the home or arranging for clients to attend adult day centres or be temporarily admitted to a residential care facility.

Assisted Living

Assisted living residences provide housing, hospitality and personalized assistance services for adults who can live independently, but require regular assistance with daily activities, usually due to age, illness or disability.

Residences range from a high-rise apartment complex to a private home. Units can vary from one room to private, self-contained apartments. Services may include help with bathing, grooming, dressing and mobility. Meals, housekeeping, laundry, social and recreational opportunities and a 24-hour response system are also provided.

Health Services

The health and safety of assisted living occupants are overseen by a provincial assisted living registrar. The registrar ensures that complaints about health and safety are cleared up in a timely and effective way (see Assisted Living Registrar). For more information, see Independent Living BC in this guide.

Residential Care

Residential care is for people who need 24-hour professional nursing care and can no longer be supported in their own homes. For seniors and people with disabilities with complex care needs, residential care provides a protective, supportive environment. Clients with the highest need and urgency have priority for placement in the first appropriate bed available.

Group Homes

Adults with disabilities can often live independently in their community in publicly funded group homes. Group homes are safe, affordable homes, usually accommodating four to six residents. They offer short- or long-term accommodation, skills training, peer support and counselling.

Family Care Homes

Family care homes are single family residences that provide residents with a home-like atmosphere. Services include meals, housekeeping services and assistance with daily activities for up to two clients. Family care homes are most common in rural areas, where they allow residents to stay in their own communities.

Health Services

End-of-Life Care

Compassionate end-of-life care aims to preserve clients' comfort, dignity and quality of life by relieving symptoms, so those facing death can devote their energy and time to embracing that which is most important to them. End-of-life care services are provided to clients in their own homes and in home-like settings, assisted living residences, residential care facilities and hospices.

Hospices and Hospice Palliative Care

British Columbians who are in the end stages of a terminal illness or preparing for death, and who do not require acute hospital care, may prefer to spend their remaining time in a hospice. Hospices are home-like settings that provide hospice palliative care, including medical and nursing care, pain and symptom management, and psychosocial, spiritual and bereavement support. Some hospices may provide hospice palliative care services in the community to people who would rather receive this care at home.

BC Palliative Care Benefits Program

The BC Palliative Care Benefits Program assists people who are nearing the end of their lives to receive palliative care at home. British Columbians can apply through their doctors. The program provides coverage for medications used in palliative care through PharmaCare Plan P, and some medical supplies and equipment through the local health authority.

PHARMACARE

PharmaCare subsidizes eligible prescription drugs and designated medical supplies. PharmaCare provides assistance to British Columbians under Fair PharmaCare and other specialty plans.

B.C.'s Fair PharmaCare Plan

B.C.'s Fair PharmaCare Plan focuses assistance on those who need it most, based on their net income. It requires a one-time registration.

Monthly Deductible Payment Option

British Columbians with the lowest incomes do not have a deductible and receive immediate assistance for eligible prescriptions under the Fair PharmaCare Plan.

Some families have a deductible that is based on their family net income. PharmaCare offers a payment option to help these individuals and families.

Once enrolled in the monthly deductible payment option, families pay their Fair PharmaCare deductible in monthly installments and receive PharmaCare assistance with eligible prescription costs right away.

Health Services

Registering for Fair Pharmacare

You can register for Fair PharmaCare by telephone or on the Internet. There is no charge to register and there are no premiums to pay. See the contact information below for the phone number and website address.

Here's what you will need to register for yourself and, if applicable, your spouse:

- BC CareCard;
- Net income information from line 236 of your income tax return, or from your Canada Revenue Agency Notice of Assessment from two years ago;
- Social insurance number; and
- Date of birth.

After you register, PharmaCare will mail you a consent form. Remember to sign and return the consent form.

PharmaCare bases your assistance on your family net income from two years earlier (for example, assistance in 2008 is based on income information from 2006). If you have experienced a significant decrease in family net income (10 per cent or more) since that year, you may apply to have your assistance based on more recent income information.

MENTAL HEALTH AND ADDICTION SERVICES

The Ministry of Health Services funds a comprehensive and integrated system of mental health and addiction services delivered by health authorities. These services focus on health promotion, prevention, harm reduction, treatment, rehabilitation and recovery, including supporting individuals and families in self-care and resiliency. Mental health and addiction services are targeted to different age groups, including seniors, and provide the following services:

- Assessment;
- Emergency and urgent services;
- Treatment;
- Residential services;
- Individual and group therapy;
- Caregiver support and education;
- Rehabilitation;
- Family involvement and support; and
- Consultation.

Although seniors have developed long-standing coping skills to manage their day-to-day stresses, they are as prone as the rest of society to suffering from the effects of mental illness and addictions. Of particular concern are issues surrounding depression, anxiety, addictions such as alcohol abuse, and dementia. The treatment of seniors' mental health issues is often made more complex due to the presence of chronic pain or some other physical health problem. Mental health services for seniors often focus on the need for collaborative practices that can include the family physician and/or home and community care services.

Contact your local health authority for information about available services. As well, the following provincial resources may be of assistance.

Alzheimer Society

The Alzheimer Society has three levels (national, provincial and local) that work together to form a nationwide network of services to help Canadians affected by Alzheimer's disease and other types of dementia. It is a volunteer-based, non-profit organization that provides province-wide support services and education programs to people with Alzheimer's disease, families, physicians and health care providers.

BRITISH COLUMBIA AMBULANCE SERVICE

Public ambulance services, both ground and air, are provided to B.C. residents by the British Columbia Ambulance Service.

The Province of British Columbia subsidizes about 90 per cent of the cost of transporting a patient by ambulance. When an emergency medical problem requires that you be transported by ambulance, you will be billed a user fee of $80. If the fee poses a financial problem, the Ministry of Health Services revenue section will work out a payment schedule to accommodate you. There is a $50 fee if an ambulance is called by the patient, the patient's family, or a care facility and the patient is not transported to hospital.

In a medical emergency:

Bounce Back

Reclaim Your Health is a program providing resources and services to individuals living with chronic health conditions and who may also be experiencing pain, depression or anxiety. The program offers telephone coaching in a series of self-help modules along with a DVD – called Living Life to the Full. The coaching component of Bounce Back is offered in many, but not all communities throughout B.C.; and the DVD can be accessed through family physicians' offices everywhere. To find out more about Bounce Back, seniors are encouraged to talk to their family doctor.

Bounce Back is delivered through the BC division of the Canadian Mental Health Association with funding from the BC Ministry of Health Services.

HOUSING

Helping Seniors Live Well

HOUSING

Housing Options for a Growing Seniors Population

From living independently in the family home, to the programs and support provided by assisted living, seniors in British Columbia have a wide range of housing alternatives. But planning for the future is critical. By 2029, nearly 30 per cent of Canada's seniors will be ages 75 to 84 and 13 per cent will be over age 85. As our lifespan increases, many more seniors are able to remain highly independent. Others will require more support. The provincial government is working hard to meet the unique housing needs of a diverse group of seniors with a wide range of programs and services.

In this section, you will find information about Independent Living BC, homeowner grants for seniors, affordable housing, property tax assessment and deferment, and how to receive assistance to renovate and adapt your home. You can even receive cash back for energy efficient home improvements.

Support for assisted living is a crucial service for our aging population. More than 4,000 affordable assisted living units are being created through partnerships between the Province and various groups. This includes providing assisted living for seniors with lower incomes and people with disabilities. These units include accommodation, meals, personal care and hospitality services, such as housekeeping, laundry, recreational opportunities and a 24-hour response system.

The British Columbia government subsidizes rents in affordable housing units built in partnership with non-profit housing providers and other levels of government, and provides rent subsidies to seniors living in private rental housing.

Housing

Under the Shelter Aid for Elderly Renters (SAFER) program, the Province has increased rent ceilings. This includes seniors who pay pad rental fees for owner-occupied manufactured homes.

Families are a traditional source of support for vulnerable seniors, who rely on family members, for the most part, to help them remain in their own homes. The Province is doing as much as it can to fill the gaps that sometimes arise in these traditional supports.

Housing

SHELTER AID FOR ELDERLY RENTERS (SAFER)

The Shelter Aid for Elderly Renters Program provides monthly cash payments to eligible British Columbia seniors. You may be eligible if:

- you are age 60 years or older;
- you pay rent for your home, including a pad rental for a manufactured home (trailer) that you own and occupy;
- you pay more than 30 per cent of your gross (before tax) monthly household income for rent;
- you are a Canadian citizen, or authorized to take up permanent residence in Canada, or a Convention refugee;
- you have lived in British Columbia for the full 12 months immediately preceding when you apply.

Application forms and further information on eligibility are available from any BC Housing office, or can be downloaded from BC Housing's website.

CASH BACK FOR ENERGY EFFICIENT HOME IMPROVEMENTS

If you are a British Columbia homeowner thinking about making energy efficient improvements to your home, the new LiveSmart BC: Efficiency Incentive Program (EIP) will give you cash back for making these improvements.

This $60 million program creates a single access point for provincial, utility and federal incentives.

For example: you could get up to $1,630 back for installing a new efficient gas furnace, or up to $560 back for a new gas water heater.

The first step for homeowners in the LiveSmart BC program is to contact a certified energy advisor to book a home energy assessment. The advisor will recommend cost-effective options for reducing energy use and will handle the paperwork for the incentive application.

For a detailed summary of available LiveSmart BC incentives, and to contact an energy advisor through the LiveSmart BC: Efficiency Incentive Program, go to www.livesmartbc.ca.

An energy efficient home will help you save money, increase comfort and reduce your impact on the environment. For more information about this program, call the toll free number below.

HOMEOWNER GRANT FOR SENIORS

If you own your home, are a Canadian citizen or permanent resident, ordinarily reside in British Columbia and occupy your residence as your principal residence, you may be eligible for the provincial Home Owner Grant. The grant reduces the amount of property taxes you have to pay.

To apply for the Home Owner Grant, complete the application form on the back of the property tax notice that is sent to you each year. You must confirm that you are the registered owner, that you are, or will be, at least 65 in the calendar year (to receive the additional grant) and provide your date of birth and phone number. The amount of the grant will be deducted from the property taxes you will pay.

In 2008 the maximum grant available to those eligible for the additional grant (including seniors) is $845, but the amount you may claim may be less as you must pay a minimum property tax of $100. The maximum grant available will also be reduced if you live on a property that is assessed at more than a specific threshold value. For the 2008 tax year, the threshold value has been increased to $1,050,000 from $950,000.

For more information contact the Home Owner Grant Administration section.

PROPERTY ASSESSMENT

In January of each year, BC Assessment sends all property owners a Property Assessment Notice showing the fair market value of the property. This market value is used, in part, by taxing authorities to calculate your property taxes. If you believe the information on your Assessment Notice is incorrect, please contact your local BC Assessment office by January 31 at the phone number or address written on the front of your Assessment Notice.

PROPERTY TAX DEFERMENT

Homeowners aged 55 years and over may defer the payment of annual property taxes on their principal residence. The Property Tax Deferment Program is a low interest loan program that assists qualified British Columbia homeowners in paying the annual property taxes on their home.

The deferred taxes are paid by the Province to the taxing authority (municipality or provincial collector), on behalf of the homeowner. The deferred taxes must be repaid with interest and an administration fee to the Province, either:

- before the home can be transferred to a new owner other than to a surviving spouse; or
- upon the homeowner's death, with repayment through their estate.

The program is also available to homeowners of any age who are surviving spouses of homeowners who were enrolled in the deferment program, or who have been designated as a Person with Disability by the Ministry of Housing and Social Development or have supplied a disability certification form completed by their physician.

For more information on the Property Tax Deferment Program, including other eligibility criteria for the program, contact your local government office or government agent office (refer to Service BC Centres page) where you pay your property taxes. Or call the Real Property Taxation Branch.

SENIORS' SUPPORTIVE HOUSING (SSH)

The Seniors' Supportive Housing (SSH) program provides specially modified rental homes, in selected subsidized housing developments, primarily to low-income seniors who need some assistance in order to continue to live independently. You may be eligible for SSH if:

- you would benefit from a modified physical environment and support services to assist you to live independently;
- you don't require a permanent level of support that exceeds the services provided under the SSH program;
- you are able to manage your own lifestyle, including reacting appropriately in an emergency situation; and
- you don't demonstrate behaviour(s) that place you or other tenants at risk.

INDEPENDENT LIVING BC

Independent Living BC (ILBC) offers a middle option for seniors who need some assistance but do not want or need 24-hour residential care. ILBC tenants receive accommodation, hospitality services, including meals, housekeeping, recreational opportunities and 24-hour response, and personal care services including assistance with grooming, mobility and medications.

Seniors pay 70 per cent of their after tax income for ILBC assisted living units.

You may be eligible for ILBC if you need additional support to continue to live independently.

Housing

To determine if you are eligible for ILBC, contact your local health authority. The Health Authorities section of this guide provides further information. A health authority case manager will work with you to find out whether assisted living is the best option for you. For information about Assisted Living, see the Home and Community Care section under Health Services.

AFFORDABLE HOUSING FOR SENIORS

Low-income seniors able to live independently without any support services, or with the assistance of home care, may apply to live in affordable housing developments.

There are three types of affordable housing developments:

- Public housing – managed by BC Housing;
- Non-profit housing – managed by non-profit societies; and
- Co-op housing – managed by residents.

Many affordable housing developments are listed on the Housing Registry, a centralized listing and application service maintained by BC Housing. The Housing Registry includes public housing and some non-profit and co-op housing providers. Other non-profit and co-op housing providers maintain their own registries.

To apply to developments listed in the Housing Registry, complete and submit an Application for Accommodation form. Application forms and further information on eligibility are available from any BC Housing office, or can be downloaded from BC Housing's website.

HOME ADAPTATIONS FOR SENIORS' INDEPENDENCE PROGRAM (HASI)

The Home Adaptations for Seniors' Independence Program (HASI) helps homeowners and landlords pay for minor home adaptations to extend the time that low-income seniors can live in their own homes independently. The maximum assistance available is $3,500 and it is intended to cover adaptations such as handrails, lever handles on doors and bathtub grab bars.

To qualify for HASI, the seniors living in the home must have a household income below a set limit (the threshold varies according to where you live). This assistance is provided in the form of a forgivable loan that does not need to be repaid, as long as the homeowner continues to occupy the unit for six months.

RESIDENTIAL TENANCY BRANCH

The Residential Tenancy Branch provides information to landlords and tenants about their rights and responsibilities, and options under the Residential Tenancy Act and the Manufactured Home Park Tenancy Act. The office can provide information to help resolve disputes related to tenancy, such as claims for damages, return of security deposits, rent increases, or eviction notices. Where disputes cannot be resolved by the landlord and tenant, you can apply for dispute resolution. The Residential Tenancy Branch also provides information and dispute resolution services for manufactured home park tenancies.

Information about landlord and tenant rights and responsibilities is available on the Residential Tenancy Branch website. To speak to an information officer or listen to 24-hour recorded information on renting in B.C., call the numbers listed below.

TRANSPORTATION

Helping Seniors Live Well

TRANSPORTATION

Transportation is Crucial to Help Seniors Stay Active

Transportation can be a major issue in a senior's life. As roads become busier and communities grow and expand, accomplishing the day's errands can become more of a challenge. Whether you rely on public transportation or you own a vehicle, you need reliable access to a range of transportation options to stay active in your community.

In this section you will find information about programs and services available to seniors. There are discounts for transportation services like transit fares and bus passes, and passage on BC Ferries. The Bus Pass Program is offered in over 60 B.C. communities and benefits more than 65,000 people each year.

If you need someone to drive for you, many local community services organizations provide volunteer driving services, or they can put you in touch with commercial driving services. Or you can access specialized services like the HandyDART, the Elders Transportation Program, and the Taxi Saver Program.

Seniors are eligible for reduced automobile insurance. Information about driver's licences for seniors and licence plates for veterans can be found here. If you need road report and travel weather updates, the Drive BC website provides up-to-the-minute information about conditions, travel hazards and road closures.

With a record one-in-seven Canadians now aged 65 or older, there may be more seniors on the road now than ever before. Many seniors wonder how long they should continue to drive. In this section, you can learn about driver fitness medical reports, and a provincial program for mature drivers to help you continue to drive well.

BUS PASS PROGRAM

The Bus Pass Program provides affordable transportation to low-income seniors and persons with disabilities. Eligible people can buy a yearly pass at a reduced cost. The bus pass allows travel without additional cost on BC Transit and TransLink, including SkyTrain and SeaBus. The bus pass is not valid on HandyDART or the West Coast Express.

To be eligible for the bus pass, you must live in an area serviced by public transit and:

- Be receiving federal Old Age Security (OAS), and either the Guaranteed Income Supplement (GIS) or Spouse's Allowance; or
- Be an immigrant to Canada who would qualify for OAS and either the GIS or Spouse's Allowance if not for the residency requirement; or

Transportation

- Be between the ages of 60 and 64 and be receiving BC Employment and Assistance; or
- Be receiving BC Employment and Assistance disability assistance.

The bus pass is valid from January 1 to December 31. For Bus Pass Program Information, please call the number listed below.

HandyDART CUSTOM TRANSIT

HandyDART is a special transportation service for eligible persons with a disability who cannot use regular public transport due to mobility issues.

This transit service uses specially equipped vehicles, provides door-to-door service and is available in all of the province's larger centres, as well as in many smaller communities.

Other transit services are provided to seniors, persons with a disability, and others in many smaller communities. These services use smaller, accessible vehicles and offer a range of services, including door-to-door and fixed commute.

For areas other than Metro Vancouver, contact HandyDART listed in the white pages of your phone book, or contact the number listed below for information on accessible services by location. In Metro Vancouver, please contact your local community resources centre or visit the TransLink transportation services website.

TAXI SAVER PROGRAM

BC Transit and TransLink offer a Taxi Saver Program for HandyDART registrants living in Vancouver, Victoria, and other B.C. municipalities. This program provides a 50 per cent subsidy toward the cost of taxi rides. Passengers use coupons for taxi travel by booking directly with a participating taxi company, without having to pre-plan the trip.

Taxi Saver coupons are sold by local HandyDART offices to any adult who has been issued a BC Transit handyPass or TransLink handyCard, which are available to any permanent registered HandyDART user.

Contact your local HandyDART operator for more information or call the numbers listed below. You can also find contact information on the websites listed below. In Metro Vancouver, please contact your local community resources centre or visit the TransLink transportation services website.

MATURE DRIVERS PROGRAM LIVING WELL, DRIVING WELL

Mature Driver Workshops

The BCAA Traffic Safety Foundation's Living Well, Driving Well Mature Drivers Workshops are designed to help mature drivers assess their own driving skills, habits and knowledge in a peer group environment while getting tips and strategies to help change and improve their driving, promoting self-awareness and ending in results that protect the population as a whole.

Mature Drivers Workshops were developed specifically to:

- Promote greater self-assessment and informed decision-making;
- Increase mature drivers' awareness of the physical changes related to aging and potential risks they may create for themselves, their passengers and other road users;
- Provide realistic solutions, options and alternatives; and
- Foster a greater understanding of the direct (and indirect) benefits that can result from making responsible choices and decisions regarding their mobility needs.

The community-based, 'Seniors Helping Seniors' approach, through a network of volunteer seniors, is an integral part of the Mature Drivers Program. The free workshops enable volunteers to help other seniors in their community

DRIVER FITNESS MEDICAL REPORTS AND ROAD TEST RE-EXAMS

Through British Columbia's Driver Fitness Program, drivers are assessed and identified to determine that they are physically, cognitively and medically fit to drive:

- when they apply for a British Columbia driver's licence;
- at regular intervals if they hold a commercial class driver's licence;
- when a reliable report is received from a medical professional, police officer, concerned family member or other individual. (Doctors, registered psychologists and optometrists have a reporting obligation under the Motor Vehicle Act); and
- at regular intervals beginning at age 80, as medical conditions affecting driving are more common as people age.

If you are required to provide a driver's medical exam report for any of the reasons listed above, you will be mailed the form, which you should then take to your doctor. There are detailed instructions on the back of the form.

Your doctor will complete this report and send it for review to the Office of the Superintendent of Motor Vehicles. You will be notified in writing only if there

FINANCES

Helping Seniors Live Well

Notes _____

FINANCES

Support for Seniors' Financial Needs

Seniors across Canada are living longer, are more active, more technology-literate and more financially secure than ever before. While many seniors fare well, others need support and may experience financial challenges.

The British Columbia government is committed to providing the best system of supports for seniors in Canada. With a strong provincial economy, a key priority for the provincial government is to support low-income seniors by providing better benefits.

This section of the guide has information about these benefits, including the Senior's Supplement, which provides about $50 per eligible senior each month. Approximately 45,000 seniors receive this supplement. As well, eligible seniors qualify for the British Columbia Sales Tax Credit of $75.

Further seniors' initiatives announced in Budget 2007 include funding to convert or upgrade 750 units of subsidized housing to supportive housing for seniors (see the Housing section of this guide for more information), and providing additional funding to strengthen and modernize the full range of health care services for seniors.

In Budget 2008, the provincial government introduced the annual B.C. Low Income Climate Action Tax Credit to assist low-income individuals and families offset the carbon taxes they may pay.

The federal government also offers a range of programs and provides benefits to seniors, including the Old Age Security Pension and the Guaranteed Income Supplement. Veterans Affairs Canada provides support to veterans and their caregivers.

Finances

Seniors often donate to charities, and it is essential they have as much information as possible about the charities they are involved with. The provincial government has partnered with the Canada Revenue Agency to help seniors get the facts they need before they give.

INCOME SECURITY – PENSIONS

The Old Age Security Pension (OAS) is a federally-funded base monthly pension, paid to you once you have reached the age of 65, provided you are a Canadian citizen or legal resident of Canada who meets the residence requirements. If you have lived or worked in another country that has a social security agreement with Canada, under this agreement you may be eligible for OAS benefits from Canada or from the other country. Old Age Security benefit rates are reviewed in January, April, July and October to reflect increases in the cost of living as measured by the Consumer Price Index. To receive OAS, you should apply at least six months before your 65th birthday or the date of your eligibility. For more information about the OAS, contact Service Canada, or visit the website.

GUARANTEED INCOME SUPPLEMENT

If you are a senior living on a low income, you may be eligible for the Guaranteed Income Supplement (GIS), which provides additional money, on top of the Old Age Security Pension. To receive the GIS, you must apply. If you are either a new applicant or an individual who already receives these benefits, your benefits will be renewed automatically each year, as long as you remain eligible and you file an annual income tax return on time.

If you do not file your income tax return on time, or if further information is needed, you will receive a renewal form in the mail. The GIS is based on your annual income, or the combined income of you and your spouse or common-law partner. As your annual income may change from year to year, you must provide your income each year, either by completing an application form or by filing your income tax return. For more information about the GIS, contact Service Canada, or visit the website.

ALLOWANCE/ALLOWANCE FOR THE SURVIVOR

If you are a spouse or common-law partner of someone receiving both the OAS and GIS, you may qualify for a benefit called the Allowance. The Allowance provides extra money to eligible low-income individuals aged 60 to 64. The benefit you receive will be based on the combined incomes of you and your spouse or common-law partner.

Finances

If your spouse or common-law partner dies (or has died), and depending on your income, you may receive a benefit called the Allowance for the Survivor until you reach age 65.

If you are either a new applicant or an individual who already receives these benefits, your benefits will be renewed automatically each year, as long as you remain eligible and you file an annual income tax return on time.

If you do not file your return on time, or if further information is needed, you will receive a renewal form in the mail. As your annual income may change from year to year, you must provide your income each year either by completing an application form or by filing your income tax return.

CANADA PENSION PLAN

The Canada Pension Plan (CPP) provides a retirement pension and other benefits for those who have contributed to the plan through paid employment in Canada. The amount of CPP benefit is determined by the contributions you made during the time you were employed. Your CPP retirement pension normally begins the month after your 65th birthday. If you apply between the ages of 60 (the earliest you can receive the pension) and 70, the amount will be adjusted. The CPP is adjusted for inflation every

Finances

January to keep up with increases in the cost of living. You should apply for CPP at least six months before you want to receive it.

If you have lived or worked in another country that has a social security agreement with Canada, or if you are the surviving spouse or common-law partner of someone who has lived or worked in another country having a social security agreement with Canada, under this agreement you may be eligible for benefits from Canada or from the other country.

If you have contributed to the CPP for the necessary number of years, the CPP also offers a one-time lump-sum death benefit to your estate upon your death. Furthermore, your spouse or common-law partner may be eligible to receive a monthly survivor pension. Dependent children up to the age of 25 may also be eligible for benefits (those between 18 and 25 must be attending school full-time).

Applications for Canada Pension Plan benefits are available from any federal Service Canada office or on-line from the Service Canada website.

For more information about the CPP, contact Service Canada.

FEDERAL AND PROVINCIAL NON-REFUNDABLE TAX CREDITS

The following information describes tax credits that may be available to you when you prepare and submit your annual tax form.

Age Amount

In addition to the Basic Personal Amount, if you turned 65 during the year (or are older), you may be entitled to claim the Age Amount, which allows eligible seniors a non-refundable tax credit to reduce their income tax payable. Your eligibility and the amount you can claim are based on your level of net income.

Pension Income Amount

If you receive pension income, you may be able to claim an allowable amount for certain pension incomes. Your qualifying Pension Income Amount will be used in determining the total non-refundable tax credits used to reduce your federal income tax.

Amounts Transferred from Spouse

Your spouse may be able to transfer to you amounts that he or she qualifies for but does not need to reduce his or her federal income tax to zero. For example: the age amount, pension income amount or the disability tax credit.

Finances

Other Amounts

You may also be able to claim a disability amount, an amount for medical expenses, and expenses for an attendant or full-time care in a nursing home.

For more information, please refer to your income tax guide or call the Canada Revenue Agency (CRA).

GOODS AND SERVICES TAX CREDIT

The Goods and Services Tax (GST) Credit is a tax-free quarterly payment that helps individuals and families with low and modest incomes offset all or part of the GST they pay.

To receive GST credit quarterly payments, people must file their income tax and benefit return and complete the Goods and Services Tax/Harmonized Sales Tax (GST/HST) credit application area on the first page of the return. Individuals who move must inform the Canada Revenue Agency immediately to ensure that payments of their GST/HST credit are not disrupted, even if they use direct deposit and their bank account does not change.

FEDERAL-PROVINCIAL PROGRAMS

Donating To Charities – Get the Facts Before You Give

Each year, British Columbia seniors generously donate to a variety of charitable organizations. These funds are used to support important work in our communities. However, there are situations when it is necessary for donors to take extra care before making a donation.

In recognition of this, the Ministry of Healthy Living and Sport has partnered with the Charities Directorate of the Canada Revenue Agency to produce the brochure, "Donating To Charities – Get the Facts Before You Give."

Copies of this brochure are available in English, French, Punjabi and Chinese, through the BC Health and Seniors Information Line.

British Columbia Sales Tax Credit

The provincial government offers a tax credit of $75 each for you and your spouse or common law partner if you are a low-income person or family living in British Columbia on December 31 in the year for which the income tax return is submitted. If you had a spouse or common-law partner, only one of you can claim this credit for both of you. The application for this benefit can be found on the British Columbia Credits form (BC479) included with your income tax return package.

Website: www.sbr.gov.bc.ca/individuals/Income_Taxes/Personal_Income_Tax/tax_credits/salestax.htm

British Columbia Low Income Climate Action Tax Credit

Effective July 2008, the provincial government introduced a new ongoing low income climate action tax credit to help low-income individuals and families with the carbon taxes they pay. The tax credit will be combined with the quarterly federal GST credit starting in October 2008. The October payment will include the payment for the July to September period.

The BC Low Income Climate Action Tax Credit (BCLICATC), which begins in October 2008, is a program designed to offset the costs of the new provincial carbon tax for low income British Columbia residents.

Finances

For 2008, the tax credit provides up to $100 for an individual, $100 for a spouse or common-law partner and $30 per child ($100 for the first child in a single-parent family). The maximum amount of the credit for 2009 is $105 ($31.50 per child).

For single individuals with no children, the credit will be reduced by 2 per cent of their 2007 net income over $30,000. For families, the credit will be reduced by 2 per cent of their 2007 net income over $35,000. The net income thresholds are indexed annually to the BC Consumer Price Index.

Protection and Support When Seniors Need it

Personal security is a big issue for seniors, and with more seniors than anywhere else in Canada, British Columbia is committed to keeping this population secure by ensuring that law and order are maintained, and by actively promoting the safety of seniors.

It is easy to understand why security for seniors is a priority for the provincial government. Statistics Canada figures show that Kelowna's population was the oldest in Canada in 2006, with 19 per cent of its population aged 65 and older. Victoria is home to the highest proportion of very elderly people (with nearly double the national average) with 6.4 per cent aged 80 and older. In Parksville, nearly one person in 10 was 80 or older in 2006. The national average is about one person in 27.

In this section of the guide, you will find information about the Public Guardian and Trustee of British Columbia, the Assisted Living Registrar, legal education and the Legal Services Society, victim services, crime prevention and consumer protection.

As an example, through the Business Practices and Consumer Protection Authority (BPCPA) consumers are protected from unfair business practices. This independent authority enforces B.C.'s consumer protection laws, provides consumer protection services, and supports a fair marketplace for B.C. consumers and businesses. The BPCPA licenses the travel industry, the debt collection industry, segments of the telemarketing industry, and the cremation, interment and funeral services industry, as well as providing film classification services for general release films.

PUBLIC GUARDIAN AND TRUSTEE OF BRITISH COLUMBIA

The Public Guardian and Trustee (PGT) provides a range of services to adults who may need help managing their affairs, as well as their families, legal representatives, the courts and general public.

A person who cannot manage their own financial, legal and personal care matters is vulnerable in our society. Sometimes, adults cannot seek the help they need because of an illness, disease, injury or other condition that affects their ability to make decisions. In these circumstances, the Public Guardian and Trustee may assist with the decision making on their behalf, or the court may order that another person undertakes this.

The Adult Guardianship Act ensures steps are taken when senior abuse, neglect or self-neglect is suspected. The PGT designates agencies under the Act who are required to respond when a senior is experiencing abuse, neglect or self-neglect. For the designated agency number in your community, visit the Public Guardian and Trustee website.

LEGAL SERVICES SOCIETY

If you have a legal problem and a low income, the Legal Services Society (LSS) can give you legal aid. Legal aid includes:

- legal information to help you work through your problem on your own;
- legal advice from a lawyer who can help you work through your problem; and/or
- legal representation (a lawyer to act for you) in court if you have a serious legal problem and no other way to solve it.

Personal Security

The particular services you can get depend on your legal problem. You do not have to be financially eligible to get legal information. You must be financially eligible for most legal advice services and for a lawyer to represent you. Many publications and some other services are available in languages other than English.

To find out what services you qualify for, contact your local legal aid office (listings are on the LSS website) or the LSS Call Centre.

CRIME PREVENTION, COMMUNITY POLICING AND VICTIM SERVICES

Government, police and community partners in B.C. are dedicated to ensuring the safety of seniors through a number of local crime prevention programs. For information on these programs, call Victim Services and Crime Prevention Division or your local police.

Victims of certain crimes may be eligible for financial assistance and benefits through the provincial government's Crime Victim Assistance Program, which helps victims of crime protect themselves and their homes, and recover from these experiences. In addition, the provincial government funds more than 150 victim service programs. These programs are run by non-profit agencies and police departments. They provide information about the justice system, practical help, emotional support and referrals to other programs and resources.

CONSUMER PROTECTION

Abuse of seniors is a major societal issue. An action or deliberate behaviour by someone in a position of trust, such as an adult child, family member, friend or caregiver, that causes an adult physical, emotional or mental harm or damage to, or loss of, assets or property is abuse. This includes shoving, hitting or threatening, as well as financial abuse, neglecting care or giving medication improperly, and the taking away of rights. Many of these abuses are criminal offences under the Criminal Code of Canada. If you think an older adult is abused, neglected or self-neglected and cannot get help on their own, contact the Public Guardian and Trustee of BC.

CONSUMER PROTECTION BC

Consumer Protection BC is a not-for-profit corporation independent from government. B.C.'s consumer protection laws provide the framework to help Consumer Protection BC protect consumers. Through their website and toll-free inquiry line, Consumer Protection BC provides the public with information on how to become more informed consumers and assists callers with concerns around their consumer transactions.

To improve consumer protection, Consumer Protection BC licenses the travel industry, the debt collection industry, segments of the telemarketing industry, and the cremation, interment and funeral services industry, as well as classifying general release motion pictures.

Consumer Protection BC is also responsible for the administration of the Travel Assurance Fund (TAF). The TAF is a fund of last resort which provides compensation for travel services paid for, but not received, when those services are obtained from a licensed B.C. travel agency. Consumer Protection BC offers complaint resolution and referrals through a toll free B.C. inquiry centre. For more information, contact Consumer Protection BC.

INVESTOR EDUCATION PROGRAM HELPS SENIORS AVOID SCAMS – BC SECURITIES COMMISSION

Many older British Columbians have lost their life savings to risky or dangerous investments because they did not understand the risks, ask the right questions, do independent research, or get a second opinion.

Con artists design sales pitches to deceive people, sometimes guaranteeing high returns on an investment, or telling them this is an investment opportunity of a lifetime. These types of pressure tactics can lead a person to make an impulsive, emotional, or irrational investment decision. If you encounter a sales pitch that sounds too good to be true, stop. Think about it. Start asking some questions.

InvestRight and the BC Securities Commission (BCSC) can help you answer questions about unsuitable investments, scams and investment planning. The InvestRight website is a one-stop resource for investors to educate themselves on how to make informed investment decisions. It provides a wide range of tools to help investors develop the critical thinking skills they need to protect themselves and make informed investment decisions.

The BCSC's Red-Flags communications campaign alerts investors to common sales pitches used by scam artists along with a province-wide seminar program. You can find investment information, report a scam, and do background checks on financial advisers by visiting InvestRight.org. If you would like to book a free seminar or ask an investment-related question, call the numbers listed below.

The BCSC is an independent provincial government agency that protects investors and fosters efficient capital markets by:

- Setting the rules for securities trading in B.C.;
- Making sure people comply with those rules and take enforcement action when necessary; and
- Providing a consumer-friendly investor education program called InvestRight that shows investors how to avoid fraud and unsuitable investments.

Other Government Services for Seniors

The provincial government offers a range of services to seniors other than health, housing, transportation, financial, lifestyle or security.

These include providing information in printed form, such as through this guide, and also in person, online and over the telephone at Service BC Centres across British Columbia.

For example, many seniors are continuing to work past the age of 65, contributing to the need for more skilled workers in the workforce. In this section you will find information about initiatives for older workers offering re-training for new careers.

As more seniors travel or arrive to live in Canada from other countries, the need for consular information increases. There is information listed below explaining how to connect with foreign country services.

The BC Seniors website offers a wealth of information, including contacts and publication listings.

For help marking a significant date or achievement, congratulatory messages from government officials are available. Information about receiving these messages is listed below.

Seniors are also eligible for many programs and services that may not be described in this guide, as they are available to all British Columbians.

TARGETED INITIATIVE FOR OLDER WORKERS

Older workers who are interested in re-entering the workforce can be a key element in addressing the skills and labour shortage B.C. is facing. Recognizing that, the Targeted Initiative for Older Workers (TIOW) program has awarded $7.5 million of federal and provincial funding to 12 organizations across B.C. to deliver community-based programs. In total, it is estimated that these projects will help 900 unemployed older workers, mostly from the forestry industry.

TIOW is designed to assist B.C.'s older workers retrain for new careers and prepare to re-enter the workplace. By funding these programs through local service providers, workers all across the province will be able to upgrade their skills, benefit from job counselling and gain work experience. The programs and projects are especially geared to assist unemployed older workers in communities experiencing economic transition, such as those affected by mountain pine beetle.
